

Little Daisy's decorating tips

Lots and lots of colour

'I've asked for a big mural wallpaper on one of my walls. I like lots of colour in my bedroom. But I think the colours should be more grown-up now that I'm seven.'

Make room for friends

'My friends will have sleepovers with me, so I am having a cool new bed that has a pull-out bed underneath so they can all stay.'

A place to put my stuff

'I have got lots of toys and books and things, so I am having a bookcase built along one wall. Mummy and I decided it should have sections painted in some cool colours so it works well with my new mural.'

Pet sounds

Brilliantly bonkers design duo Keith Stephenson and Mark Hampshire combine vintage imagery with modern, surreal flourishes. Who doesn't want a squirrel running along a trombone? Their designs would make a great statement on any wall. 10m x 52cm roll, £40, minimoderns.com/shoppe

Meet more designer whizzes who are putting the fun factor back into wallpaper

Cheeky monkeys make for very funky walls

Dragons' den

Paperboy was conceived after mum Victoria Cramsie couldn't find a boy's wallpaper for her twin sons, Rory and Archie, that felt handmade, but wasn't too twee or whimsical. The result is her own selection of magical designs (such as 'Ere Be Dragons' and 'Spitfires') that are fun enough for little kids, yet cool enough for older ones. 10m x 52cm roll, £78, paperboywallpaper.co.uk

MORE IDEAS